

VIDEO CONTEST FOR 12-19 YEAR OLD TEENAGERS IN EUROPE

WE WANT YOU!

Daily actions like electrification, digitalisation (including mobile phones and tablets!), heat, and cooling, all need natural resources. But mining comes with environmental and social impacts, including possible damage to the natural landscape, pollution, and social injustice.

At the same time, these negative effects can be minimised, and mining can actually be a good source of employment and solve the high need for these resources in Europe.

- What do you think of that?
- How do you think conflicts over resources can be minimised in the future, while still satisfying the growing need for resources in Europe?
- Can you show us one example of how natural resources are part of your daily routine? Which natural resource is most important for you?
- How would a day be without these natural resources?
